

UDST ALUMNI NEWSLETTER

President's lens

Dear Alumni,

As our alumni network continues to grow and thrive, I am filled with pride and appreciation for the countless ways you contribute, standing among the greatest strengths of our UDST community. Your involvement goes far beyond graduation, it lives on through the businesses you've established, the students you've mentored, and the opportunities you continue to create for each other and for the university.

We take pride in the many ways our alumni give back to the UDST community. From alumni-owned businesses serving as vendors at our graduation ceremonies, to participating in and sponsoring conferences and events on campus, your contributions are felt across the university. Many have provided internships to our students, hired fellow alumni for full-time roles, or extended benefits and discounts to the entire UDST community. Each act of support, whether big or small, reinforces our shared commitment to advancing opportunity, growth, and lifelong connection.

At the same time, we remain committed to giving back to you, our alumni. We continue to provide access to career advancement opportunities, discounted access to sports facilities, library privileges, and other resources designed to support your personal and professional growth. New opportunities will continue to emerge, but the true strength lies in staying connected and harnessing the collective power of the UDST alumni network. Together, we can create lasting impact and inspire future generations.

Let us keep building on this momentum. Your journey will always be part of our university's story, and we are proud to have you as lifelong members of the UDST community.

Alumni Spotlight

Get to know our amazing Alumni firsthand:

Eman Nur
(2024)

In what ways have you contributed to the UDST community since graduating?

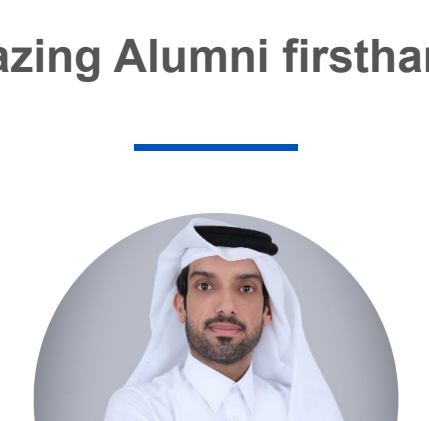

I've encouraged students to pursue their master's degrees and have created job opportunities for fellow alumni through my role in HR.

Why do you believe it's important for alumni to stay connected to their university and give back?

Alumni reflect the true impact of UDST. Staying connected helps inspire students, expand professional networks, and strengthen the university's legacy.

Can you share an example of an opportunity UDST gave you after graduation that made a real difference?

UDST's strong reputation and continued support helped me stand out when applying for jobs, while the alumni network opened doors to real opportunities in the job market. In addition, the university's HR program enabled me to earn the CPD certificate, which gave me a significant advantage in the competitive HR field.

Abdulrahman Al Saei
(2023)

In what ways have you contributed to the UDST community since graduating?

I proudly represent UDST in my professional life and advocate for it as the education institution of choice in my community.

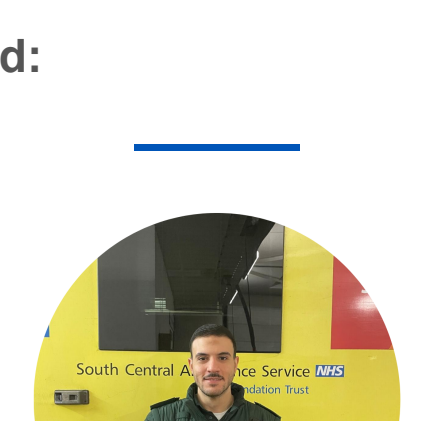

Through my business, which UDST has supported, I have also provided catering services for several of the university's events and celebrations.

Why do you believe it's important for alumni to stay connected to their university and give back?

Staying connected strengthens the alumni network and supports current students through mentorship and opportunities. Giving back ensures the continuity of the university's legacy and helps open doors for others, just as it once did for us.

Can you share an example of an opportunity UDST gave you after graduation that made a real difference?

One notable opportunity was being invited to a career panel, where I was able to connect with industry leaders, attend free events and courses, and gain visibility in my field. This support ultimately led to a job that aligned with my career goals.

Mohammad Al-Khatib
(2017)

In what ways have you contributed to the UDST community since graduating?

Since graduating, I have proudly represented UDST both locally and internationally across the healthcare, emergency management, and food industries. I have promoted the value of its graduates and mentored current students in my field.

Why do you believe it's important for alumni to stay connected to their university and give back?

Staying connected enables alumni to inspire students, contribute through mentorship and collaboration, and strengthen the university's growth, reputation, and global presence.

Can you share an example of an opportunity UDST gave you after graduation that made a real difference?

One memorable opportunity was when UDST Alumni Affairs invited me to participate in an event and showcase my restaurant, Meat Corner. This experience not only promoted my brand but also allowed me to reconnect with the UDST community in a meaningful way. It reaffirmed that the university continues to support its graduates well beyond graduation.
