Hearing Loss and how it affects us

Hearing is an essential part of our daily life and looking after the health of your ears is just as important as any other sensory organ if not more. The NHS recommends hearing checks at least every 3 years.

Studies have shown that reduced hearing is significantly linked with early onset of dementia.

Tonight we welcome Laila Rajpal, who worked as an Audiologist for the NHS and now runs Otocare, a private clinic in Rickmansworth, with her husband. She will talk about hearing loss and everything associated with it eg tinnitus, dementia, vertigo etc.

To be chaired by Judith Lyons. With Q&A.
