GENERAL ALLENBY IN JERUSALEM
DOV WIEDER

“I was born and raised in Bnei Brak, in the centre of Israel. In the National Service (Sherut Leumi), I served as a nurse assistant in a surgical ward at Beilinson Hospital, Petah-Tikva. I studied International relations and Geography at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. As a student, I started working as a tour guide at the Tower of David, Museum of the history of Jerusalem. Later on, I became the marketing coordinator of educational tourism in the museum. Until today, Jerusalem is a huge passion in my life; I love learning and exploring this city of eternity and share its story with others.”

A general, a brigadier and a cook wanted to conquer Jerusalem in the middle of Chanukah 1917. Who was the first to meet the Mayor of Jerusalem? Who got the letter of surrender? And who got a small Sefer Torah as a present? In this session, we will go behind the scenes of the most peaceful conquest of the city of eternity, and try to understand what made this event so mythical and iconic to the people of Jerusalem and the entire world.
