

Finance Systems Manager

ACC's vision is to create a unique partnership with every New Zealander, improving their quality of life by minimising the incidence and impact of injury. ACC is entering an exciting time of modernising their finance systems, improving business processes and building capability within the Finance Systems team.

The Finance Systems Manager is responsible for leading and delivering the development of the financial systems to transform finance processes and enable better business decisions. It initiates and drives the continuous improvement of financial reporting and associated systems, processes and policies.

Key responsibilities of the role and what you need to be successful:

- Proven ability to achieve mutually beneficial outcomes and benefits with a customer-centric mindset
- Strong people leadership capability and ability to influence relevant stakeholders
- Proven planning and organisational skills, including the ability to delegate, meet deadlines and work under pressure, balancing competing priorities
- A high level of collaboration, co-design, facilitation and negotiation, communication and presentation skills

You'll need sound understanding of finance technologies, the users, market place and future trends. You'll understand stakeholders and incorporate their requirements, problems and issues to the strategy and workplace, working with relevant internal and external stakeholders to deliver value. Even more important will be your people leadership and ability to build capability in a changing environment.

At ACC, we recognise that diversity, inclusion and accessibility is important to our business. ACC's Maori Strategy Whaia Te Tika provides the foundation for delivering better outcomes in a kaupapa Maori, culturally appropriate and responsive way for current and future Maori and diverse employees. ACC holds itself to a philosophy of Tika enabling us to create an environment of involvement, respect and connection with the communities where we work - benefitting individual employees and all our clients across New Zealand.

We would love to hear from you if you feel you are a good fit - applications will only be accepted when formally submitted through our ACC Career Website online.
