

Book Release:

“BEAUTY of the WILD”
by Darrel Morrison

A TALK AND BOOK-SIGNING BY THE AUTHOR

SEPTEMBER 15, 2021
4:30 PM – 5:30 PM
JACKSON STREET BUILDING
ATHENS, GEORGIA

Darrel Morrison, CED Dean (1983-1991) and Professor Emeritus, has influenced countless students by focusing on native plants, merging art with ecology, and prioritizing ecology-based design and management. After retiring from UGA in 2005, he taught at Columbia University, Rutgers University, and the New York Botanical Garden. From Sept. 13-17, Morrison will be the artist in residence at the UGA College of Environment + Design.

This event is free and open to the public. Books will be available for purchase.

Mr. Morrison sits beside an ancient limber pine on a Montana ranch, where he has been consulting since 2006 on vegetation restoration and other planting projects. Credit...Carol Betsch

Co-sponsored by the College of Environment + Design (CED) and College of Agriculture and Environmental Science (CAES)

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA